Why the NDMA?

North Devon is an area located remotely from the mainstream of British Industry, but with which it is essential that we integrate.

North Devon proudly boasts some of the finest manufacturers in the region, employing over 14% of the local workforce (higher than the national average) and by working together, we can overcome the challenges presented by the isolated location. NDMA connects with other manufacturing associations and bodies, providing a stronger voice within larger regional and national groups.

NDMA connects members through networking events and provides a voice in key decisions on road and communication infrastructure. Regular events share best practice and updates to manufacturing related business.
